Morgan County Spends $25,000 For Highways

REVENUE BOARD TO OPEN BIDS ON MAY
24TH ON PROJECTS

Pike Road Location
For Repair Not Yet Known

CHECKS MUST ACCOMPANY BIDMaintenance Work To Be Approved By Road Chiefs

Sums ranging from $20,000 to $25,000 have been appropriated by the Morgan County Board of revenue for the repair and rebuilding of Morgan County roads.

It is announced today that the Morgan County Board of Revenue will receive sealed bids until 10 o'clock a. m. on Monday May 24, for the surface treatment and application of asphalt bituminous surface on certain pike roads to be designated by the board.

The board has not yet announced the county projects in the order in which the work will be started.

This maintenance work, it is further stated, will be approved by the county engineer Marion S. Bingham and L. P. Troup, judge of probate and chairman of the road commission. The work will call for the expenditure of from $20,000 to $25,000. Prices for the application by penetration of bituminous asphalt per gallon also is asked.

Certified check for $1,000 as Bidder's Bond, must accompany each bid, the bids to be filed with Judge Troup.

The determination of the road commission to place several county roads under repair at an early date meets with the approval of the entire citizenship of the county several pike roads being in a poor condition at this time.

Location of the several roads to be placed under repair will be made known later.

"Honey Dew" Syrup
Now Made Locally

McDaniell and McDaniel, manufacturers of "Honey Dew" table syrup, began business Monday located in the building at the corner of Wells and Cain streets. The manufacturers come here from Crossland, Ala. The product will be for wholesale distribution only, it was stated. From two to three operatives at the plant are required at the present time. The company operates its own canning facility.

Ransdell Opposes
Cotton Legislation

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 20—A report opposing the Carroway bill to prevent sale of cotton or grain in future markets unless the actual product is to be delivered and received under the contract, has been submitted to the senate by Senator Ransdell, democrat, Louisiana, on behalf of himself and other members of the agriculture committee.

The measure which was reported March 31 without recommendation by the committee was assailed by Senator Ransdell as primarily an effort to suppress cotton exchanges. Similar proposals have been rejected for the last 50 years.

Territory

Organization of alumnae in Zone No. 1 for the Woman's College of Alabama $500,000 endowment and building fund campaign was proceeding steadily today.

Zone No. 1 includes the Huntsville, Florence, Decatur and Russellville districts and is headed by Miss Imogene Winton, of Albany, as chairman. Miss Lizzie Reed Penn, of Hartselle is secretary.

For the Florence district, Thelma Rhoades of Sheffield, is chairman, Miss Elizabeth Robertson, of Moulton heads the Russellville district. In the Decatur district Mrs. Ruth Sharpley Morrow, Albany, is the leader, while Miss Vella B. Moon, Madison, heads the Huntsville district.

The former students, undergraduates and faculty of the college plan to raise $75,000 of the $500,000 fund designed to make the Woman's College a Grade A institution.

In the meantime the work of organizing the Methodists of the North Alabama and Alabama Conferences continues to proceed rapidly. Chairmen have been named for the majority of the churches in Zone No. 1 which, in the church organization, also includes the Jasper District. C. J. Randolph, Albany, the zone chairman, has been active during the last week perfecting the organization and everything now in virtually in readiness for the opening of the campaign on Sunday, April 25.

Observance of Woman's College Sunday in all the Methodist churches will be one of the leading features of the drive opening. The intensive effort will come to a close May 3.

Heroine Found;
She Killed Mouse

John Green, clerk of the probate court, is confident he has discovered an unidentified heroine. He declares that while a woman visitor at the courthouse was eating her lunch there a mouse appeared. Instead of screaming for help the woman grabbed an almanac and killed the mouse on the floor.

NEW LONDON, Conn., April 20—Twelve men, members of the S-49 which was moored at a dock at the submarine base, were injured this morning when the after battery in the submersible exploded. All the men were taken to the base hospital. One man may die.

The submarine which returned from the Portsmouth navy yard, Portsmouth, N. H., two weeks ago, had been moored at her berth and her battery was under process of being charged throughout the night. Escaping gas fumes are believed to have been the cause of the explosion.

The explosion produced a tremendous concussion which hurled the dozen men in the steel walled compartment against the side of the chamber. While many of them are suffering from the effects of gas and fire, it is believed that fractures of limbs constitute the greatest injuries.

Immediately after the explosion the fire alarm was sounded, bringing scores of men to the scene equipped with gas masks, the rescuers dropped into the submarine and carried out their comrades. There were about 30 men in the forward battery who escaped with little injury. Carbon monoxide fumes seeped into the forward chambers, endangering the lives of the men there.

Hubert Ross, popular employee of the Morgan County National bank, who has been in a hospital in Birmingham suffering from a painful cut of his wrist, is expected to arrive home today. He is said to be recovering from his wound, which was received several days ago, when a pane of glass fell on his arm as he was attempting to raise a window.

His wrist was cut badly, but physicians were of the belief that he would suffer no after-effects from the wound and he would have entire use of his hand.

WET TRAIL MARKS
WORK OF POSSEThree Counties Raided
And Eleven Men
Placed In Jail

(Associated Press)

ANNISTON, Ala., April 20.—A whiskey soaked trail marked the path of a strong posse of state law enforcement officers, reinforced by sheriffs and deputies, over Cleburne, Talladega and Lee counties.

With a determination of "cleaning up" this section, the posse left here a week ago. They returned Monday, reporting 10 men in jail, 11 stills destroyed and hundreds of gallons of beer and whiskey poured out.

From Gadsden came the report of the capture of 12 stills and 25,000 gallons of liquor in one day in Lee county. Operations of whiskey men in counties around Anniston had become defiant during the past few months and rumors of extensive plans became persistent. Hundreds of gallons were being shipped daily to cities in Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee and Mississippi, it was said.

While outwardly idle, law enforcement officers have been gathering data on locations of stills sometime, which culminated last week in their long and successful hunt. Report of their work was brought to Anniston by Officer John Draper, who participated in the raids.

The report from Gadsden was sent by Officer Jack Roberts. Among those under arrest are: Adger Wheeler, Earl Hardin, Luke Deese, Frank and Emmett Easterwood, Paul Johnson, all of whom were taken to the Cleburne county jail in Heflin, and Albert and Jack Cruise, who were locked in the Talladega county jail in Talladega; Virgil and Adolphine McBurnett were arrested and their truck, said to contain 30 gallons of whiskey, confiscated. They were headed for Atlanta, officers stated.

Raids Widespread

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 20.—Coincident with wholesale raids by state prohibition forces in the eastern section of the state and the seizure of thousands of gallons of whiskey, come reports from several places in the same vicinity, telling of raids by county and town officers.

County police of Cleburne captured three alleged distillers, cut down a still running full blast, and poured out a quantity of liquor.

J. E. Loveless, one of the suspects, is a justice of the peace. The two other men are: George Wallace and Joe Fordham.

In Randolph county sheriff's forces found 20 gallons of liquor, still warm. The still could not be located. The only arrest in the town of Heflin over the week end was that of a negro, Ed Birdsong, on whose person whiskey is alleged to have been found.

Observers Note Farming Advance

Observers returning today from the Trinity section declared that farming in that section is probably farther advanced than in any other section of the county. People gave no indication for the reason of the section being advanced over other county sections, but paid compliments to the farmers of the Trinity territory for their early spring work.

Sharp States That

His Suicide

(Associated Press)

NASHVILLE, April 20.—Reiterating that he had shot his wife, Mrs. Fay Kline Sharp, "by request," Walter Sharp, 42 theatrical employe charged with killing her early this morning at their home on 8th avenue, declared that the only thing that worried him was having "to wait for mine because it will be about two months before they take me to the pen, and I get mine in the chair." Sharp declared that he was drunk at the time.

"Do you think a drunk or crazy man would have had sense enough to have telephoned the undertaker to come and get us or to have ordered the coffins," he said.

Shortly after two o'clock this morning people were advised by an undertaker that Sharp had called ordering caskets for himself and wife and had told the undertaker to come and get their bodies. Police rushed to their home where they found the woman dead in bed and Sharp in the basement with the gun in his hand and, according to officers, apparently drunk.

"She asked me to shoot her," the man said to a newspaper man, "the first time the gun snapped, but it sure did bark the second time. If I had not left that fool door open for the undertaker I would have bumped myself off, but these officers came and got me."

The couple were married about ten years ago and it is said have had frequent quarrels.

LOCAL BANKERS TO ATTEND CONVENTIONGroup One Will Meet
In Chattanooga
This Week

Bankers of the Twin Cities are planning for representation at the meeting of group one, which will be held this year in Chattanooga, being convened there Friday. Group one is a unit of the Alabama Bankers Association, but the invitation of Chattanooga to meet in the Tennessee city was accepted at the convention of the group, held here last year.

A. H. Hoff will represent the Morgan County National bank; T. A. Bowles, the Central National bank; Clyde Hendrix the Tennessee Valley bank, while it was stated the representative of the City National had not been selected.

The group meetings provide one of the features of the work of the Alabama Bankers Association, a convention being held in each of the districts annually. The Chattanooga bankers have promised an interesting and profitable program of entertainment.

TRINITY ROAD TO BE REPAIRED SOONBoard Of Revenue To Open Bids For Work
On May 24th

The Board of Revenue, Morgan County, favors the rebuilding of the Trinity road at an early date.

Notice is being made today that the County Board of Revenue will open bids May 24th for the repair of the Trinity roadway, leading north to the Decatur-Courtland highway, a distance of two miles. Bids are asked for water bound macadam and asphalt penetration. Crushed stone for the job amounts to 2,500 yards.

The notice to contractors carried today in the Daily is of particular interest to people of the Trinity section and people of the Albany-Decatur district. The roadway has been in need of repair for some months and the step of the county road administration is receiving favorable comment from the people at large.

46 Already Are On
Supplemental List

In view of the number of political campaigns to be settled at the ballot box this fall, unusual interest is being displayed by Morgan County people in their qualifications to vote.

It was announced today at the probate office that already 46 persons have satisfied officials of their qualifications and have obtained the addition to their names to the poll list. Their names will appear on the supplemental list to be published by May first.

Years ago someone identified with the metropolitan press described news as a matter of a man biting a dog.

He might also have added news was a matter of the fox chasing the dog....and here is news.

A fox appeared yesterday at the home of W. O. Clark, near Falkville, biting dogs, chickens, ducks and other animals about the house. The fox finally was killed, and the head sent the Tennessee Valley laboratory here for examination. It showed the animal was rabid.

Parley At White House Today

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 20.—President Coolidge suggested today to the Muscle Shoals commission that it summon before it the bidders for the property and bargain with them for better bids.

In a conference with Senator Deneen and Representative James, republican members of the commission, the president made it clear that he desired that the bidders assume the production of fertilizer, the distribution of surplus power and the payment of an adequate sum to the government for the property.

He proposed that the commission call the bidders before it and tell each of the other offers received by the commission for the property and determine if any of the bidders desired to make a new and better offer.

The president is desirous that if a bid is accepted by the commission that it should not involve any additional expenditure on the part of the government on to Muscle Shoals project.

Chairman Deneen, of Illinois, and Senator Sackett, of Kentucky, republican members of the committee, were understood to have informed the president the committee expected to be ready next Monday to submit to congress recommendations for a 50 year lease.

Shortly after the visit to the white house, the committee met in executive session and heard Thomas W. Martin, president of the Alabama Power company, and other officials representing the Associated Power bidders.

Mr. Martin requested the committee to hear them and although it previously had been voted not to hear any more bidders, the committee agreed.

Miss Nobody

Published by arrangement with First National Pictures Inc.

He pulled her roughly toward his shack. She put her hand on his arm, and knew that he was trembling violently.

His truculence was gone. He became strangely gentle. By now Barbara knew that his gentleness boded no good.

"If you want to talk about sending me away—," her heart was beating fast. "Save your breath!"

"There's going to be fighting."

"I want to be in on it!"

"My dear child—"

"Don't talk about sending me away, because—"

"This time," said Barbara sadly, "I'm not going to talk about sending you away. I'm going to do it."

The expression on her face hurt him deeply, but he continued steadily. "The men know you're a woman."

"What of it?" she asked.

"Don't you understand?" His voice was gentle, patient. "What do you suppose the men are saying about us? These aren't gentlemen, you know. They're ditch-diggers. They're asking themselves, 'Has he any special privileges we haven't got?'"

Each of them has a little evil cranny in the back of his mind at work distilling rotten thoughts about us."

"But I'm their buddy," she insisted.

"From now on," he said, "you're just prey—like Lily."

She was silent. He strode up and down the room, restless, disquieted. He opened the communicating door leading to her separate cubicle of space in the shack, and looked into it with eyes that suddenly grew misty.

"It's the end, kid," he turned to her miserably. "Got any junk you want to pack?"

A crafty, malicious look came suddenly into her eyes, and she lowered their lids so he might not read it there.

She began to sob—clenched her fist and struck blindly at his face.

"Well, if I must, I must," she said cheerfully. "When do I leave?"

"Pettin'ill sends his wife out on the special at midnight," he said jollily. "You leave with her."

"It's very sweet of you to have made all arrangements," she said. "I'll pack right away."

She rose and walked briskly into her room. She hummed a tune of "My Decet."

In the three months of their almost domestic intimacy Barbara had not once looked that door.

"But that was merely because he trusted me," he thought.

And then another thought leaped to his brain.

"She's going—why can't I go with her? Why can't we go together?"

And resolved they would.

Barbara's song had ceased. He went to the door.

"Barbara!" he called softly. There was no answer. Fear came into his eyes.

He threw the door open. The room was empty. The window was open.

He wasted no time. In the camp there a sudden squall of rain cooled his face and ordered his tumbling thoughts. He knew that Barbara didn't go to the mess hall nor to the cook shack, but mechanically he looked into both places. Back in the street he collided with Pettin'ill.

"I've got my wife here in the fever," said the engineer. "I was looking for you. Where's that woman you told me about?"

"I'll have her at the train by midnight," yelled Barbara. "Drive your life to town."

"But—"

Pettin'ill stopped. He was talking to a void.

Barbara popped out of the dark at the elbow of the guard, stationed by his own orders at the one break in the barbed-wire fence which surrounded the camp.

"The kid? Sure. He went through a little while ago," said the guard. "I'd it was your orders."

Barbara brushed by him. A blinding flash of lightning ripped the ravens with a roar that shook the earth under his feet. Rain fell as at the crumbling bottom of an overhead sea.

By the brief glare of blue white light he oriented himself. He was in the long meadows which stretched from the track westward to Sugar Loaf. He plunged aimlessly through the slant of the rain, praying for another flash of lightning. Then it came he saw her. She was in the distance. In the flash of light she stood out like a materialization of a delirious dream. He ran in the dark toward the spot where she stood, immobile and, it seemed to him, indifferent. His hands, outstretched in the dark, met her body.

"Barbara!"

"Let me go!" She tried to shake him off. Where his fingers gripped her arm there was pain. "You're hurting me."

His fingers tightened. She wondered dully if he'd break her arm, as he'd broken Cassidy's. He was a prig, a bluenose. He wanted her to go, not to save her, but to save himself. He was afraid of life.

She was not with hatred. He had planned her exile without consulting her. By what right?

"Take your hands off me, Judas. Go back and get your share of that bonus. Get your share of the $10,000. And take my share while you're about it."

He was drawing her to him. What was she smiling about?

"I've got three dollars," she said. "You can have that too, if you'll let me go. You'll have your thirty pieces of silver, Judas!"

"You're the Judas," His anger rose like a flame. "You're just a measly little treacherous female. I had to break a man's arm to keep him from leaving camp. You take advantage of my known friendship for you to be the first to violate my order. Why? Because you're a woman, and women are double-crossers—natural born double-crossers. You know damn well I can't break your arm!"

"Why not?" She cried defiance. "Go ahead. Break my arm! Break my back!"

He seized her roughly around the waist and his vice-like grip cut her breath short. She began to sob, then raised her free arm, clenched her fist and struck blindly at his face. They fought in panting silence. She struck out with her feet. He recoiled and stumbled. They both fell.

She was afraid now. She had seen his anger. It was terrible. She couldn't recognize his voice. He was muttering incoherent things in her ear.

"Barbara... Old Timer... Dearest..."

She thought of another night. He had told her, later, of the freight train which had come by and thrown its light on her face.

She whispered, and he must come close—no, closer than that—here, where his head could lie on her shoulder. Else he would not hear at all.

Lightning crackled. It lit up her face. He could see that her eyes were closed.

The Madonna look.

The rain fell like curtains.

The Raid

Barbara struggled free and up. He moved at her feet and pleaded: "Don't go away, Barbara."

"Not far," she spoke with serenity. She leaned over him and stroked his hair. It was wet, soaked by the rain, which had now settled down to a steady pour.

"Lie still," she mothered. "I want to be alone for just a little while."

She moved off and the night swallowed her. For a long time he lay still, his face upturned to the pouring skies, idly wondering at the soft, sane kiss of the rain. He should think, but he couldn't. Nor could he remember what it was he should think about.

Volition returned to him finally as if by the restoration of some severed electrical current. He leaped to his feet.

A high-pitched scream destroyed the peace of the night and cleared the mists from his brain. From what quarter had it come? He turned in a circle and cursed. It rang out again. Barbara's voice, tragically altered by fear.

"Bravo! Bravo!"

He knew then. The townies had gotten her. He heard hoofbeats and ran blindly, heading into the dark. He wasted minutes in vain rushings over the lumpy fields. In those minutes, he knew, the raiders had had ample time to start the over-mountain trek back to Sparta. He ran back to camp. Incoming, he passed the guard and had presence of mind to cry a greeting as he sped by.

When, in the shack, he put his key to the lock of a dynamite chest, he didn't fumble. He slipped handfuls of the stuff into his hip pocket and then broke off a smaller length, which he stowed into his coat pocket. He left the shack by the inner door, which led directly into the stockade built around the entrance to the tunnel.

From the tool chest he chose a good five-foot length of fuse. He picked up a safety lantern and ran into the underground passage.

The raiders were going over the mountain. He'd go through. He'd tear up the mountain by its roots. But that wasn't necessary. The dynamite would get him through, unless he were killed in the attempt. And he mustn't get killed. Barbara had called to him.

According to his information the two tunneling forces, burrowing toward each other, had worn the partition of rock dividing them to a thickness of ten feet. He was glad he had brought along plenty of dynamite.

At the end of the shaft he threw his light over the rough wall which barred progress. Near the center he noted, with a grunt of satisfaction, a small hole, about two inches in diameter. The men, at the end of yesterday's work, had partially drilled a hole for the dynamite charge which he carried in his coat.

FLAPPER FOIBLES ARE NOT A MENACE

Well Built Maids of Today, With Care in Home and Church Instruction, Will Prove to Be Inspiring Personalities.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

I AM writing this on a train between New York and Washington. Across the aisle from me are two girls, on their way back to school, I imagine, after a week-end at home.

They are fine specimens of the so-called "flapper" type and I have observed them with considerable interest. In the first place, they are fair to look upon, but we expect that of all women-kind.

But what pleases me about these young women is their industry. Tomorrow there will be classes and I venture to say they will be well prepared. For two hours they have been just as busy as I have. One has written a story, for which I heard her say she had considerable trouble to decide on an ending. The other has solved endless problems in mathematics.

They have minded their own business. They are on their way and are not taken up with the affairs of the other passengers.

They indulge a bit in rouge and powder, but, bless their hearts, they don't need either and won't be damaged one bit by that little foolishness. They give evidence of having good appetites. They haven't spent these last few hours, as so many of their normal stomachs by eating ruddy all the afternoon.

I am not disturbed by present-day activities of the young people. Somebody said the other day that the "hard principle" predominates—that the inherited and home formed ideals are being wiped out by the "hard" practices.

When, pray, was the time young folks didn't run in "gangs" and "crowds" and "sets"? It always was so, but the boundaries or limitations of these groups were never fixed. There was a "run out" here and an addition there. Now, stock is being added and fresh socialism is poured in every day.

"I'd rather have the free limbed, unnumbered bodied, athletic girl she is today, than to have her return to the tight, high corsets, long dresses, and starchy, and over-weighted conditions of olden times. The is, deeper chested, stronger joined and bolder muscled than the girl of several generations ago was. With equal care in home and church instruction, I am confident the modern girl will travel the line of life as closely as her predecessors did."

Every girl should be taught how to cook, or at least how to select a meal suited to give health and vigor. She must not depend on the soda fountain and the sandwich wagon for her nourishment. Her freedom of dress gives her a swing through the streets that will develop an honest appetite. This must be satisfied by the eating of real food.

When she is properly fed, the cheeks are pink, the lips are red and the eyes bright. With bodies abounding in health, their minds think good thoughts and they are likely to be the joy of their parents.

Answers to Health Queries

M. L. A. Q.—What is the cause and cure for an unnatural thickness of the tonsils?

A.—There is no remedy for this condition excepting to have them cut frequently.

T. R. Q.—What causes my leg to be constantly swollen after an attack of phlebitis? What will relieve this condition?

A.—Consult your doctor. He should be able to advise you, since he is familiar with your particular case.

L. H. Q.—What is a good general tonic and builder for a rundown system?

A.—Build up your general health and take either "ad liver oil" or some similar tonic for a time. For further particulars, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

INDIANA ANN. Q.—What do you advise for superfluous hair?

A.—Superfluous hair may be removed by an electric needle handled by an expert. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for full particulars and repeat your question.

A READER. Q.—I am a middle-aged lady and suffer from watering eyes. What would you advise?

A.—There may be some condition of the tear ducts responsible. Have your eyes examined and then proper treatment may be definitely advised.

L. C. M. Q.—What do you advise for pyorrhea in a young girl of 12? The trouble has loosened the teeth.

A.—This is a condition which should have the attention of a dentist who will advise the treatment necessary, in order to prevent the spread of the trouble to healthy gums and teeth.

E. T. J. Q.—What can be done for wrinkles under the chin and sagging face muscles?

A.—Massaging may help you.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medical, hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where that subject is a letter so such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally. ENTIRE CLASS HAS OFFER EMPLOYMENT

The Value Of College Training Is Seen In Statement

(Associated Press)

AUBURN, Ala., April 20.—Every member of this year's senior class of the architectural department, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, is engaged under contract for employment although commencement is a month off.

Several months ago, information concerning graduates was solicited by architectural firms in the state. In some cases interviews were held with the students by prospective employers.

In connection with this announcement, Prof. F. C. Biggin pointed out that a five-year course of study in lieu of the present four year course architecture will be inaugurated next year, all new students being required to register in the five year course or as "special" with the provision that students that are already registered in four year courses will be allowed to complete their course in the four-year period or change from one to the other as they may elect.

Prof. Biggin pointed out that the common idea that graduates from a department of architecture become draftsmen and practicing architects only is wrong.

"The course offered provide excellent foundation for other lines of business, such as contracting, the manufacture and handling of building materials, interior decoration, landscape design, town planning, commercial and other forms of applied art work," he said. "Graduates in architecture and architectural engineering are engaged in all these branches of industry."

The department at Auburn comprises 100 students in architecture and architectural engineering and 50 women in home economics, as well as 50 other students who are electing architectural subjects, making a total of 200.

Shadows Of Once Great Armies Of Lee Jackson, Forrest To Enter Birmingham

(Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 20.—

Shadows of the past—a shrinking remnant of the once-great armies of Lee, of Jackson, of Morgan, the two Johnstons, Stuart, Forrest, Beauregard, Hood—names that once sent a tremor of pride through the heart of every Southerner—are coming to Birmingham in May.

From every corner of the South, and from some sections of the North, the "thin gray line" will gather, perhaps for the last time, in the frayed, gray uniforms of the Confederacy and under the banners of '61. A few days of parade, gentle revelry and reminiscence—to disappear again forever.

To Birmingham—the heart of the South—comes the honor of that last great gathering. To Birmingham people comes the opportunity to pay final tribute to the heroes of the Lost Cause—to a memory that has lost its bitterness and ripened into a reverent sweetness with the years.

Beauvoir, the old home of Jefferson Davis on the Mississippi Coast, is now the home of some 80 Confederate Veterans, their wives and widows. This small group has been looking forward to this time when they are to gather for the last time with old comrades.

But the Beauvoir veterans may not come to Birmingham, unless some plan is devised to care for them after they get here. The L. & N. Railway has supplied free transportation through Superintendent John Base and the Pullman company, through vice-president, L. S. Hungerford, will furnish two sleeping-coaches for them. It remains for the people of Birmingham, through the local entertainment committee, to find homes for them during their stay.

Word of this problem of caring for them was received here from Mrs. Helen Mosby Tartt, superintendent of Beauvoir, who with a physician, three trained nurses and five orderlies will accompany the Beauvoir party, but they will stop in hotels and boarding houses, it is stated.

Automobile Show To Be Given Free

Free pictures will be shown tonight at Caldwell's U-Drive-It establishment on Second Avenue, beginning at 7:30 o'clock, it was stated today by representatives of the Oldsmobile agency, F. W. Johnson and G. Birmingham Bache. The picture shows the detail of work in the automobile main plants. It has been shown at various points over Alabama and throughout the nation. The Oldsmobile agency has recently been established here by the H. & H. Machine company.

Crowds Continue Decatur Baptist

Interest continues high in the annual revival series, which began Sunday at the Decatur Baptist church. Rev. Powell Tucker, of Selma, already has won for himself a high place in the esteem of local people and his sermons are proving a great blessing.

The chorus choir, under the direction of Rev. Powell Lee, are features of all services.

Fennell Receives Unusual Honors

Richard Fennell, local boy now at Birmingham-Southern college, has received nomination as chairman of the Senate committee of the school, the highest student honor to be conferred, it was learned here today. Young Fennell, a former Albany high student, has worked untiringly in the interest of his school since his entrance and promises to leave the school recognized as one of its foremost leaders.

Missionary Talks To Large Audience

MOULTON, Ala., April 20.—Special

—Miss Addie Cox, after a stay of several days in Moulton left Monday evening for Albany-Decatur. Miss Cox is a missionary from China, she is at home on furlough for a year.

While in Moulton, Miss Cox gave an address at the Baptist church on Sunday evening and again on Monday afternoon to the women's missionary society; her address Sunday evening was given to an overflowing house and pronounced by all one of the best ever given in Moulton since she gave what the public in general and church people in particular desire to know of the actual work done by a missionary in a foreign field. In the Sunday evening address, Miss Cox appeared in Chinese costume and gave enough of the customs of the people and descriptions to add interest to the story of the work she was actually doing. Miss Cox is an Alabama woman, her home being at Carrollton, while here she was the guest of her long time friend Mrs. O. L. Judd.

Lawrence Teachers Have Their Exams

MOULTON, Ala., April 20.—Special

—Examination for teachers was held in Moulton Monday and Tuesday; there were nine applicants for license six white and three negroes. Among the whites there was one applicant for a life certificate, three for second grade and two for third grade. Each of the negroes was applying for third grade license. There is a marked contrast between examinations held now and ten years ago, when the occasion called forth from fifteen or twenty to thirty or more possible teachers; now the greater number attend the State normals and other higher institutions and get college credit as well as better training for their certificates.

Ford

Highest in Quality Lowest in Price

The finest steels available are used in the manufacture of Ford cars.

The plate glass for windshields and windows is as perfect as can be made. Upholstery material contains a larger percentage of wool than is ordinarily specified—even for much higher priced cars. The basic features of Ford design have never been improved upon by any manufacturer.

No other car offers greater dependability. The Ford car has won the favor of millions of users, under every conceivable motoring condition. Its convenience is known and appreciated the world over; its performance is taken for granted.

Such quality is possible at Ford prices because every operation, from mining of ore to final assembly, is under direct control of the Ford Motor Company.

Iron is taken from Ford mines in Michigan; coal from the Company's mines in Kentucky and West Virginia. Glass comes from Ford glass plants; wood from the Ford timber tracts in the North. Raw materials and finished products are carried over the Company's own transportation routes; coke ovens, blast furnaces, a steel mill, foundries and saw mills—all are part of this complete organization. There are even salvage plants, paper mill, cement plant, etc., to transform waste materials into useful by-products.

In this way every possible economy is effected. Under no other circumstances could Ford quality be had at Ford prices.

12 Years Ago

From the Daily of
TODAY April 20, 1914

A. M. Bruner, of Chicago, delivered an address Sunday afternoon at the Masonic Theatre to a large crowd of men.

Claude Vandiver has resigned his position as baggage master at the union station, being succeeded by O. B. Cunningham.

The University of Alabama glee club will appear in concert here Friday evening.

W. S. Russell, of Madison, is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Alex Humphrey.

Mrs. W. B. Edmondson has returned from Hot Springs, Ark.

Colonel Williams now must have a dark "morning after" taste in his mouth.

The wets have gained something anyway. They have stirred the dries to action.

Atlanta never does things by half. A pastor in the Georgia city says Atlanta is plumb full of wild women.

Edward Browning has more troubles than the average married man. He goes on a shopping trip which includes not only the dress making and department establishment, but the toy stores as well.

The manner in which Vanderbilt men have rushed to the aid of the school's campaign for $4,000,000 speaks well of the spirit of loyalty which is inculcated in the hearts and minds of Vandy alumni.

Attorney General Andrews should take a day off and explain his views on the prohibition question so that they will be understood.

"Banquet" is defined by the Nashville Tennessean as "Some cold victuals on a plate, somebody you don't know introducing a speaker you don't care to hear." Partly right, but a banquet also is peas and potatoes with some other kind of food, but surely peas and potatoes.

The farmers and their families, at least, are very likely to get something out of the current political campaign. One after another of the candidates has declared for a nine months school term in the rural stage. The candidates have reached the promising stage at any rate.

A new yarn out of Hollywood says some of the picture people prefer the safety of "second roles" to stardom. We will believe a snake story, and a fish yarn too, maybe, but we'll be darned if we will believe any such stuff as that about the movies.

Circus freaks have their joys and their sorrows along with more normal human beings. A giant leopard girl and fat woman, attending the funeral service of the "bearded lady" wept softly as the strange body was laid to rest. "If anyone has gone to Heaven that woman has," added the fat woman.

It cost the government more than $60,000 to discover Senator Wheeler was not guilty of using his senatorial influence to obtain oil leases. Such a costly mistake, in private business, would fall heavily on somebody's shoulders. In public life, the "buck" can be passed successfully, no doubt.

ARVIDSON WILL ACCEPT PLACE IN COMMUNITY WORK IN LOUISVILLE

The announcement by Y. M. C. A. authorities here that S. E. Arvidson, boys' work secretary, will leave about May 1 to accept community work in Louisville, Ky., will be received with regret by scores of citizens, young and old. Since coming here several years ago Mr. Arvidson has worked untiringly to bring the youths and young men of the Twin Cities into touch with the better things of life.

It was his special mission to promote athletics, both for adults and for the smaller boys. Unfiringly he labored to bring about events in which the grown-ups and others could participate. Oftentimes he faced almost insurmountable difficulties, but the work he has done in behalf of the Y. M. C. A. here will be remembered long after he has left for other fields of endeavor.

OTHER CITIES ARE NOT WAITING FOR THE INEVITABLE BOOM

Other cities in Northern Alabama are seizing every opportunity to get hold of two large industrial projects presumably the two plants asking information here. Other cities are offering: financial assistance, free sites, free water, free taxes. Looks like they have us bested on everything but location, good spirit the will to do and transportation facilities. The plants are yet in the making, it may be months before definite approval of location is given, but in the meantime the people of the Twin Cities must not sleep, others around us are not sleeping. We have much to do within the next few months, it is best that we start on the plants we now have in mind.

LOCAL BOYS MAKE GOOD RECORD AT THEIR RESPECTIVE ALABAMA SCHOOLS

Albany-Decatur have cause to be proud of the records being made at two Alabama institutions of higher learning by Twin City youths.

At Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, Seybourne Lynne recently was elected editor of the college publication for next year. He also is a member of the debating team and recently, when his team-mate became ill, he delivered his own and his mate's argument and won a debate from another major school.

At the University of Alabama Bryan McAfee has been nominated for president of the student body, a very high honor. Three candidates will make the race and Mr. McAfee's many friends here feel sure that should he be elected he will reflect credit upon himself in the discharge of his important duties.

WET CAUSE DAMAGED BY TESTIMONY OF FORMER CANADIAN HIGH OFFICIAL

To many observers the testimony of a former attorney general of a Canadian province, given before the senate liquor committee, appears to have been the most damaging to the wet cause.

It had been charged by those who desired a modification of the Volstead law that, should the law be amended to permit the sale of light wines and beer, that the bootlegger would go by the boards. Their claims, however, are flatly contradicted by the testimony of the Canadian official, in whose territory the beer plan has been tried out.

Sale of beer of low alcoholic content did not satisfy the thirst of those who desired strong beverages and bootlegging still flourishes, despite the fact that drinks may obtain beer without any legal restraint whatsoever.

The wets, thus, are put in the position of asking trial of a plan in this country which already has been tried and proved a failure in Canada.

RESIDENTS OF DANVILLE WANT ROAD FROM THAT COMMUNITY COMPLETED

The plea of the people of Danville for the paying of the long stretch of highway, between here and that end of the county, is one which is deserving of serious consideration. The Daily believes, by the Morgan county board of revenue.

Part of the Danville road already is built and the remainder, it is said, is in fair condition at some times of the year. The Danville road was one of those supposed to have been built sometime ago and construction was advanced as far as finances would permit at that time. Surely some way could be found now for continuing the work and completing it.

The people of Danville deserve an improved road to Albany-Decatur and The Daily believes the board of revenue will count their point well taken.

DAVID LAWRENCE SAYS McKINLEY WAS BEATEN BECAUSE HE CHOSE TO KEEP HIS WORK

No less an authority than Arthur Brisbane wrote sometime ago that Senator McKinley, of Illinois, was facing political defeat in the Republican primaries if he chose to support the world court plan. Perhaps some people did not believe that statement, but Senator McKinley was not among them, is the claim of David Lawrence, renowned political observer.

Mr. Lawrence declares that Senator McKinley fully realized the gravity of the situation, but chose to vote for the court, in spite of the danger of his own defeat at home, because he had given his word to the late President Harding and to President Coolidge that he would vote for the league.

If these things be true, Senator McKinley measures up to the statute of a real man, regardless of whether he won or lost in the political primaries. People who have a sacred regard for their word are entirely too few both in and out of the United States senate.

ELBERT GARY MAY QUIT ACTIVE POST AS HEAD OF THE STEEL CORPORATION

The early retirement of Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, is indicated in his annual statement to stockholders, in session in Hoboken, N. J. Gary's health lately has not been of the best, but the public sincerely hopes that he will be permitted to remain at the helm of this great corporation.

Judge Gary not only has developed world dominance in steel for America, not only has he earned large dividends for his stockholders and furnished employment for thousands of workers, but he has done something more important than those things, he has restored the confidence of the public in giant corporations.

It requires no unusual memory to recall the days when corporations of almost any size were viewed with marked suspicion by the public. Due largely to the efforts of Judge Gary and those of his calibre, this suspicion has been almost eliminated. It would be a tragedy, indeed, for Judge Gary to find it necessary to give up his post.

GROUND BROKEN MONDAY FOR NEW MILLION DOLLAR COTTON MILL IN GADSDEN, ALA.

Congratulations to Gadsden! On Monday work was started on the new million dollar cotton mill, which was obtained by that city in a recent campaign. Engineers have been busy for some days setting their stakes and making the other necessary preliminary arrangements and Monday the actual work got underway.

The following news dispatch from Gadsden has appeared in the daily press:

Gadsden, Ala., April 18.—Ground will be broken Monday for the new $1,000,000 cotton mill which will be built by the Sauquoit Spinning company of Alabama, in the northern part of Gadsden.

Engineers have been setting stakes and locating the buildings during the last week and excavation is to begin at once. A. K. Adams, contractor, who has obtained the contract for constructing the buildings, is assembling men and material and no time will be lost in getting construction work under way. The machinery of the Sauquoit mill at Utica, N. Y., will be moved here as soon as the buildings are ready for it.

There are 20,000 spindles and much of the output of the new mill will be used by the hosiery mills of Alabama, Tennessee, and other southern cities.

Gadsden is deserving of the congratulations of the entire state. The bringing of the Utica concern to Alabama is no mean achievement and the successful conclusion of the negotiations reflects credit upon the people of Gadsden and the people of all this state.

It must be borne in mind also that the people of Gadsden did not obtain that new plant without some financial sacrifice on their part. It took time, effort and money and Albany-Decatur must make up their mind to expend the same three energies if they are to be successful in obtaining one or more of the industries now being negotiated with.

big as New England, with the population of Cleveland settled over its vast territory. We certainly have unoccupied land to spare in our country. What a pity our dog in the immigration manger policy should keep good men and women out—the men and women that came here in years past and made the country what it is.

THIS is the town of Officacho, named for a tall mountain that was a landmark for early pioneers in their covered wagons. From this point starts the new branch of the Southern Pacific, that will run through the Casa Grande valley with its 120,000 acres soon to be irrigated by water from the "Coolidge Dam," on the Gila river.

WE HAVE the land, the water, the money—we lack people that want to work the land and know how. And we hold our nation back by refusing admittance to the most desirable people on earth, that would come to us now from the troubles of war, as they formerly came from the troubles of religion.

IN this one state, there is health room and opportunity for half the people in the country. Perhaps workers for these newly irrigated lands will be brought from Porto Rico, a few thousand of them at least. They are "citizens" and can come and go, even as contract labor and they can be shipped from Porto Rico to Galveston for twenty dollars a head, less than the freight of a cow. The human takes less room, loads and unloads himself and no "cruelty to animals society" prevents packing him in. Would it not be better to admit Europeans brought here by the ambition and courage that brought our ancestors rather than bring in, by shiploads, Porto Ricans that may not like the climate?

TO TALK about the productive power of the soil, desert land, some of it, washed down from the mountains when water is added, seems like a fairy story and more unbelievable than Jack and the beanstalk. One acre of desert land flying by will produce as much as a carload of lettuce, melons or other produce.

GUESS WORK? No, Go to California's imperial valley and see. You could buy "worthless," arid desert land here, recently for little or nothing. You cannot buy it at all now. There 25,000 acres planted with cantaloupes ship out more than 20,000 acres of lettuce send out 15,000 carloads from what once was called "worthless desert land."

THIS is a hospitable country, and at each station, Tucson, especially they ask you to stay, because they have "the finest climate in the world." It is literally true in each case, for the climate is perfect, no climate can be better than that.

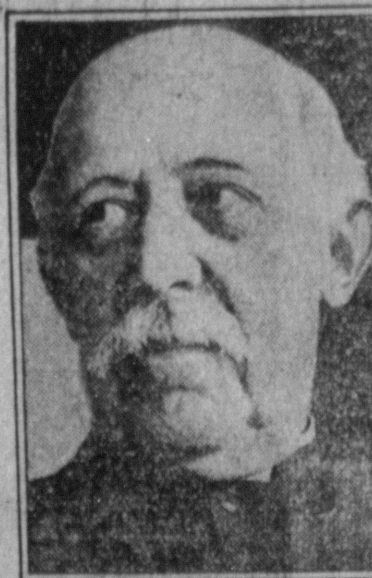

AT WELLTON, Mr. Winsor president of the Arizona senate and champion booster for his state comes aboard to tell you that at Yuma, an hour away, the chamber of commerce and the Indian band will be at the station to welcome you.

YOU remember in your illustrated Bible, the gentlemen that went to spy out the promised land came back staggering under the weight of one bunch of grapes. Senator Winsor could beat them. Compare with the Yuma mesa, that promised land was just this soil, hardly worthy of irrigation. And looks how that promised land has run out. You could not weaken the soil of the Yuma mesa with five thousand years of cultivation. It is more than one hundred feet deep, to fertilize it would be to insult it, like giving ten cents to Rockefeller. And so it is, pretty much, all over the state. The Yuma mesa, by the way, according to government reports, is most free from frost of any place in the United States.

W. R. Hearst has one of his five sons at school in Tucson, and that young man, in his teens, reports that Arizona is "The Ric." All American youths will know what that means. It is the highest praise. You really ought to see Arizona, and all the rest of this country. It is one big wonder, one big opportunity.

Distinctive Beauty at a One-Profit Price

Studebaker Big Six Brougham

f. o. b. factory

THE most beautiful Studebaker ever built—a car that offers luxuries in style, finish and interior appointments considered impossible in a car at this price until Studebaker achieved it through One-Profit manufacture.

No car has finer type of body construction—nor more luxurious inner and outer appearance—than the Studebaker Big Six Brougham. There are only seven American cars of equal rated horsepower, and they cost from two to four times more to buy.

It is because of this that we ask you to judge this fine car solely on a basis of comparison with any fine car you have admired—and buy then by what you know to be the facts.

Beauty and luxury

From its black-enameled steel travel trunk on the rear, attractively set off by ornamental brackets, to the distinctive curve of its bright nicked radiator—the Big Six Brougham is the highest example of the coach-builders' art. Leather rear-quarter and landau arms complete its custom beauty.

Inside—it's a study in luxury. Wide, deep seats accommodate five in easy-chair comfort. Upholstery is of finest broadcloth, tailored to a form-fitting design.

Finest body construction

The richness of its interior and exterior finish is indicative of the fine quality body construction you cannot see. Body pillars are of selected northern white ash; cross-members of hard maple. Studebaker standards—the highest in the industry—zealously guard every part and operation in its manufacture.

Because of its power, beauty and quality advantages the Studebaker Big Six has become the world's fastest-selling high-powered car.

FEDERATED MISSIONARY SOCIETIES MEET AT CENTRAL BAPTIST

The Federated Missionary societies of the Twin Cities, Trinity and Austinville met Monday, April 19th. The Central Baptist church was the setting for the spring meeting of the Federated Association.

The church had been prettily decorated. The table where Mrs. Laman Penney, president, presided and her secretary, Mrs. J. T. Nelson sat, was decorated with a mahogany basket of purple and white lilies, placed against a background of white dogwood blossoms and Jackson vine.

At 10:30 o'clock the meeting was opened with a beautiful solo by Mr. Jack Scholfield, Mrs. Seneca Burr was the accompanist. Dr. J. E. Dillard of the Southside Baptist church, Birmingham, was then introduced to Dr. W. P. Reeves. His subject was "The Mission Field." He divided the subject into five divisions, the first, a description of the superlative grandeur of the mission field. Dr. Dillard was heard by a thrilled audience, nearly every church in the Twin Cities being represented by membership and pastors. At the close of the much appreciated address, Mrs. Vera Austelle gave a report of community work in Decatur that was completed and very interesting. Mr. Powell Lee sang, "God's Plan," in a beautiful voice. Dr. Dillard closed the morning session with prayer. The Ladies parlor was opened where a glowing fire was most inviting, the ministers and laymen present were invited with the ladies for luncheon.

Afternoon Session

The afternoon session was opened with a hymn, Mrs. George Jackson at the piano. This session was devoted to reports from the delegates representing the societies belonging to this group. Mrs. Frank Emens of Trinity lead the devotion. After the reading of the minutes of the fall meeting by the secretary, Mrs. J. T. Nelson, Mrs. F. L. Carswell, president of Missionary Society of Central Methodist church, made an excellent report. Eighty-nine delegates electrified the afternoon session with reports of work in their societies. Mrs. D. D. McGehee gave a comprehensive review of community work. The real cry was for means to carry on the work. Mrs. J. L. Proctor made a financial report. Much to the regret of all interested ladies, Mrs. McGehee who resigned her leadership in the Community work. She is succeeded by Mrs. Thomas Hodson. The afternoon session was closed at three o'clock, the spiritual blessing manifold to those who attended.

THOMPSON-LEMAI

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. LeMay of Town Creek, announce the marriage of their daughter, Sallie Viva, to Mr. Edward Dimmore Thompson, of Hillsboro. The ceremony was performed Tuesday afternoon by Rev. C. C. Helpful Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

A few days ago a friend of mine left town. He came to my home to say good bye. I told him he could write to me if he wanted to.

Did I do wrong by asking him to write? ANXIOUS.

ANXIOUS: No, my dear, this was your privilege if you wished to continue his friendship.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: A girl friend of mine is going to graduate from high school and I want to know if it is proper to send a bouquet of roses or carnations to her or send her a gift.

A. B.: I think it would be very nice for you to send her flowers on her graduation day. A. B. But, of course, it is just as proper to send some other gift. This is just a matter of choice.

Dear Annie Laurie:

About nine months ago I met a boy about one year my senior. He left town and we corresponded for a long while. Then we had a quarrel and he told me not to write him any more and I am just wild to correspond with him. Please tell me what to do about it.

Lonesome Peggy.

Lonesome Peggy: My dear if you love this young man it is not fair to ask you to give him up, but if you are not sure that you love him your sense of pride should keep you from corresponding with him.

Mrs. Sadie Sullivan and children have returned from a visit to Mrs. Lillian Grizzard of Sheffield.

Your Grocer or Druggist

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

1. Is it considered right to go to a party with two boys?

2. Is it proper for a girl to write to a young man first?

LIB AND SCOOPS. 1. Certainly. 2. If both of them have invited you together.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am a young man in my twenties and am engaged to a girl a few years younger than I.

Do you think it improper for me to kiss her? BILL.

BILL: No, since you are engaged this is not improper.

Dear Annie Laurie:

Is it nice for girls to call boys on the phone, and boys to call girls? Is it alright for a girl to tell a boy the date of her birthday? Is it nice for boys to call girls pet names such as "Darling," "Sugar," when not engaged?

Dumb.

Dumb: There is no harm in talking over the telephone. It is alright to tell him if he asks the date of your birthday. My dear there is no way you can keep anyone from calling you these pet names, but it is not conventional and leads to familiarity.

Lady Says Her Back "Hurt Night and Day"—Least Noise Upset Her. Better After Taking Cardui.

Winfield, Texas.—"My back hurt night and day," says Mrs. C. L. Eason, of R. F. D. 1, this place. "I ached and ached until I could hardly go. I felt weak and did not feel like doing anything. My work was a great burden to me. I just hated to do up the dishes, even. I was no-account and extremely nervous. "My mother had taken Cardui and she thought it would do me good, so she told me to take it. My husband got me a bottle and I began on it. I began to improve at once. It was such a help that I continued it until after the baby's birth. "I took eight bottles and I can certainly say that it helped me. It is a fine tonic. It built me up and seemed to strengthen me. I grew less nervous and began to sleep better. "I can certainly recommend Cardui to expectant mothers, for to me it was a wonderful help. In every way I felt better after taking it and I think it is a splendid medicine."

Cardui is purely vegetable, and contains no harmful drugs. For sale everywhere. NC-162

Midget Boxer Found Dead In His Bed

(Associated Press)

MILWAUKEE, April 20.—Clever Sencio, midget Filipino boxer, died today alone in his hotel room, after a furious ten round engagement with Buddy Taylor, Terre Haute, Ind., challenger for the bantam weight title here last night.

The 21 year old Filipino was found on his bed in a pool of blood. Whether death had been caused by the punishment which almost knocked him unconscious in the tenth round has not been determined.

Apparently death was due to an internal hemorrhage.

The following are in charge of arrangements, namely: S. E. Arvidson, general chairman, Scheer, publicity, Bloodworth, decoration, McKelvey, program, Frazier, funds, Prof. O. S. Hagerman, banquet and Spencer, matching of couples. The boys will bring their girl friends.

Below is given the full program: Toastmaster, Glenn McKelvey. Songs, S. E. Arvidson, leader. Devotional exercise, Robert Jacobs. Invocation, Prof. O. S. Hagerman. Intermission. Introduction of guests, by hosts. Banquet. Special music, Mitchell brothers. "Choosing a College" Horace M. Layman. Surprise number, a song, by the boys.

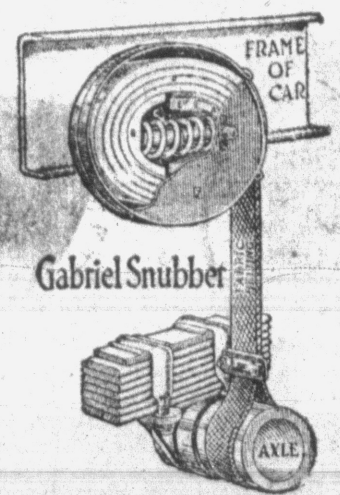

Pioneer Clubs Enjoy Their Hike

The young boys who went on the Pioneer Clubs' hike Saturday had a real good time from nine in the morning until supper time. There were some eighteen in attendance, including S. E. Arvidson, Boys' Work Secretary, Y. M. C. A. and F. W. Gosline, leader of the Roger Williams club.

Among the things enjoyed during the hike were fishing, baseball, singing, stunts and the making of such as whistles and whips out of tree boughs. A similar good time, only better, is planned for Saturday, May first.

These boys attended the hike: J. W. Goode, Theron Jackson, Earl Jackson, John Higson, Leonard Waddell, Julian McNeese, Eugene Speer, Jr., Bob Hunter, Lamar Buck, Jas. Gosline, Roy Gosline, Jack Smith, Felix Weaver, Vernon Tucker, Hughlon Tucker and Harold Wiegman.

"Have a Camel"

Here is mild and mellow goodness that completely satisfies the taste

HIGH prices don't satisfy the taste. Or fancy names. Or wrappings. But Camels bring complete smoking enjoyment to ever-increasing millions of smokers. Why?

Because of Camel quality. Camels are made of the choicest tobaccos nature grows. Choicest Turkish and Domestic, expertly blended to bring you all of their goodness. We put the utmost quality into this one brand. Camels are the world-renowned product of the largest tobacco organization on earth.

And remember this: No expense is spared to make Camels the finest of all cigarettes, regardless of price.

If you want the smoothest, mellow-mildest cigarette you ever put a match to—one entirely free from cigarette after-taste—just try Camels. Compare them with any other cigarette. Our promise is—you just can't smoke enough Camels to tire the taste. But you'll get such mild and mellow goodness as you never hoped to find.

Have a Camel!
